- Details: Edward McMullen has been a solicitor of the Supreme Court of England and Wales since 2002. In 2006 he moved to Hong Kong to join the Australian law firm Minter Ellison – the largest law firm in the Asia-Pacific region. He is a Senior Associate and Registered Foreign Lawyer, specialising in advising clients on procurement and the drafting and negotiation of building contracts and professional adviser appointments. He has worked with clients across a range of sectors, including local government regeneration projects; hotel, retail and gaming; commercial property developments; power generation; health and education.

Edward recently won 1st prize in the HKSCL inaugural 2008 writing competition The Society of Construction Law Hong Kong Prize. His talk is a presentation based on that winning paper.

This talk considers the etiquette to be followed once the tender process begins. The bidding relationship between the procuring party and those bidding for success is a contractual one. But what are the terms of those contracts? What is the nature and extent of the procuring party's duty (or implied duty) to act fairly towards those who tender their affections?
