The Hong Kong Institute of Project Management (HKIPM) Project Management Achievement Awards (HKIPM Awards) is held each year in Hong Kong, and the awards are aimed to provide an opportunity for organisations and project managers in different disciplines showing their project success amongst their counterparts. This seminar has provided a communication platform for the representatives of the two winning projects in the year 2013, to share their valuable hands-on experiences and effective project management skills with the audience. HKIPM offered their heartfelt congratulations to the award winners for their outstanding achievements in project management.
